PEACE PROGRESS IS SLOW IN THE RAIL STRIKE

MANY ARE SIGNED UP FOR TRIP TO AUBURN; JOHNSON WILL LEAD COUNTY DELEGATION

Automobile Party Will Leave Early Saturday Morning Agent Announces

SEVERAL ORGANIZATIONS ARE TO HOLD SESSIONS

Prize Winning Boy Farmers Are Planning To Make The Trip

A somewhat novel caravan of automobiles will depart for the south end of the state Saturday morning at 4 o'clock—the start being made from Hartselle and Falkville. Walter G. Johnson, Morgan County farm agent, and Porter Brinley, chairman of the county "Boys' Corn Club," are the chief instigators and directors of the proposed southern trip. Mr. Johnson stated that the purpose of the trip was to take some 25 Morgan County farm boys down to Auburn College for the annual encampment of the corn club boys and their friends. He also stated that on Monday, July 24, even date with the opening of the boys' encampment, that all the county farm agents would hold their annual convention, that the Farmers' Union would hold its meeting at the same time, and also that the Alabama Dairymen's Association would meet at the same time and place.

According to Mr. Johnston, Cecil Crawford, of Ryan's Cross Roads, who won the prize—a free trip to this Auburn meet—last year by raising 64 bushels of corn on one acre, Travis Beatty, of Austinville, who won a $25 prize for the best calf raised by a boy in the county, and the following other corn club boys were already "signed up for the trip," with others to follow:

Robert Holland, Albany; Trueman Shanceyfelt, Lebanon; Floyd Brisco, Ryan's Cross Roads; Hall Hodges, Hartselle; J. B. Elliott, Jr., Falkville, who recently won a handsome prize for the "best chickens" in his neighborhood, and Malcolm McAnear, who was a near winner last year in the corn contest and who this year is in the race again with a fine acre of corn near waist high. Young McAnear lives with his parents near Ryan's Cross Roads, on a large farm.

Saw This Corn Yesterday.

Farm Agent Johnson saw young McAnear's corn patch yesterday. He was told that four wagons of stable manure and one large sack of fertilizer was all that was put on the prize land when the corn grains were dropped. Now this corn is waist high, and in a few days young McAnear will put a large sack of "soda" fertilizer around the corn. Farm Agent Johnson directed him to spread the "soda" all around through the furrow, then to run through the "middles" and cover the new fertilizer not over an inch or so deep. Mr. Johnson went out in the Ryan neighborhood, because he wished to "sign" the boys mentioned above for the Auburn trip. He told the fathers of the boys that the 500-mile trip would cost the boys only $5.50 a head, as an appropriation from the county commissioners helped bear the expense, and that one other $5 each was necessary to pay board at Auburn, during the proposed five days' stay. He said two days would be consumed in making the trip both ways—the itinerary being via Birmingham, via Montgomery, and thence to Auburn College. Mr. Johnson said that the return trip might be made via Westvista.

The program at Auburn for the boys included both work and play, so as to insure "all the boys against being dull boys." As Mr. Johnston rode over much of the south end of the county, he said that time crops were better than he had expected, but especially so "on the plateau or table land," more commonly called the "mountain land." He examined several cotton fields and afterward de-

OAKLEY KENNEMER FOUND NOT GUILTY BY LIMESTONE JURY OF ASSAULT CHARGE

Verdict Brought In Few Minutes After 8 O'Clock This Morning

NO DEMONSTRATION AS VERDICT IS RENDERED

Defendant Had Been Indicted Jointly With Russell Malloy, of Woodlawn

(By International News Service.) ATHENS, Ala., July 19.—The jury in the case of Oakley Kennemer, of Athens, charged with attempted criminal assault on a young girl from Florence several weeks ago, brought in a verdict of not guilty at 8 o'clock this morning.

Kennemer was indicted jointly with Russell Malloy, of Woodlawn. Malloy, who was recently tried, was sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary.

In the indictment it was claimed that Malloy and Kennemer virtually kept the young woman a prisoner for several hours in an automobile owned by Kennemer.

The alleged assault occurred during an Epworth League convention here. Both Malloy and the girl were delegates.

Though there was no demonstration when the verdict was rendered, some disappointment was expressed by spectators at the finding of the jury.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Dates for the postal conference conventions to be held in every state during the year, were announced today. The list included Richmond, Dec. 5; Raleigh, Jan. 16; Charleston, Jan. 19; Atlanta, Jan. 23.

Did Pope M. Long Out-Maneuver His Republican Opponents In Primary?

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—Did Pope M. Long, of Cordova, chairman of the state Republican executive committee, outmaneuver his opponents within his own party Tuesday when he certified to William P. Cobb, secretary of state, that he is the only candidate for chairman of the Republicans of those eight counties—Cullman, Blount, DeKalb, St. Clair, Franklin, Winston, Shelby and Chilton—will vote for the chairman of the state committee along with the candidates for county offices.

Mr. Long is the leader of one faction of the Republican party in Alabama now. For many weeks it has been reported that the other side would attempt to oust him from the chairmanship and place at the head of the executive committee a man who represented the views of the other side which is now headed by Oliver D. Street, according to reports. But in any state convention which the Republicans may hold Mr. Long will have the support of the Republicans of the eight counties, unless the other faction can defeat him by writing the name of another candidate for chairman on the ballot on election day.

Headquarters Make Public Plan For Combating Any Armed Force

MINES WOULD BE LEFT TO MERCY OF FLOODS

Two Years Experience And State License Are Required By Law

(By International News Service.) WASHINGTON, July 19.—Ten thousand union maintenance miners—now engaged as stationary engineers and pumpers in idle mines, in order to prevent ruination of the mines—will immediately desert their posts, leaving the mines to the mercy of floodwaters, if strike breakers are employed by the operators, it was declared at union headquarters here today.

When the miners went out on strike on April 1 they left guard groups behind them to safeguard the coal mines against floodwaters, possible explosion due to collection of gas in pockets and against a variety of hazards.

Great difficulty, it was declared by miner leaders, would be experienced by operators who tried to replace striking stationary engineers due to the operation of state statutes in Indiana and Illinois, providing that all stationary engineers must have state licenses.

Two years' experience in the mines is the requisite for such a license, the official said.

"There will be no defections from the ranks of the union miners," John L. Lewis declared today. "It is absurd to think that the United Mine Workers are going to fight the United States army," Lewis said in commenting on the message sent by President Harding to the governors of states.

Miner spokesmen pointed out today that a very strong factor favoring the miners is the existence of state statutes in Indiana and Illinois prohibiting any miner from working at the face of coal who has not secured a license from the state after examination and proof that he has served two years as an apprentice to a certified miner.

In Pennsylvania a similar statute, applying to the anthracite miners, operates in like manner. In this connection it was pointed out not even the federal government could transgress the state statutes if it became necessary for the administration to take an active hand in coal production.

Responses from the governors of the 28 coal producing states to whom President Harding addressed his appeal for support and pledge of aid last night began coming into the White House this morning.

President Harding was said to be well pleased with the promptness with which the state executives responded and with the tone of replies. They will probably be made public later.

GOVERNOR DECLINES.

(By International News Service.)

RALEIGH, N. C., July 19.—Governor Morrison of North Carolina today declined to comply with President Harding's request that governors of all states co-operate in asking miners to return to work. Admitting that the absence of a mining industry in North Carolina furnished sufficient excuse for declining the invitation, Governor Morrison added: "I would not do so anyway. I feel the whole policy of national and state governments trying to adjust labor disputes unwise. It always forfeits the confidence to such controversy finally decided against by the government and creates suspicion of partiality in the exercise of its police power."

Governor Morrison told the president that the full duty of the gov-

Later Proposals Prolong Parley

(By Associated Press.)

THE HAGUE, July 19.—New proposals in connection with discussions of compensation for confiscated property and payment of the Russian debt were advanced by the Russian delegation at a meeting today with the entire non-Russian commission of the conference of Russian affairs here.

The Russians suggested an arrangement by which Russia would undertake to negotiate directly with foreigners for payment of compensation for confiscated property with bondholders for settlement of the Russian debt.

Annual Cain Picnic • Event of July 21

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—The annual picnic, which for several years has been given each year at the J. F. Cain farm, north of Somerville, will be an event of next Friday, July 21. Numerous invitations are given to these occasions and there is always a large crowd on hand to enjoy the provision which is made by Mr. Cain and his boys for their guests. A barbecue and Brunswick stew is one of the main features of the occasion. A ball game is also a feature. This time there is to be a double header played. The picnic grounds are in a large pasture near a fine grove, where a splendid spring of water abounds. Mr. Cain is one of the finest of hosts, and those who attend look forward from one year to the next for these happy occasions.

Harvey Honored By Telephone Men

(Montgomery Bureau, Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—W. A. Laborde, of Mobile, will be president of the district association of Long Line Employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company during the next year. He was elected at the annual meeting which closed here today. E. Wilson of Birmingham, was named vice-president, and G. C. Harvey, of Albany, secretary.

In Pennsylvania a similar statute, applying to the anthracite miners, operates in like manner. In this connection it was pointed out not even the federal government could transgress the state statutes if it became necessary for the administration to take an active hand in coal production.

Problems relating to the long distance work of the telephone company were discussed during the meeting.

Roper Denies Reports of Men At Work In The L. and N. Shops Here

The following official statement was issued today by H. C. Hutchison, chairman of the press committee of the federated shop crafts:

Flat denial of published reports of railroad officials as to the number of men at work was a feature of the enthusiastic meeting of rail strikers held at the Masonic Theatre this morning. The largest number of general chairmen of the unions and out-of-town speakers yet to speak at the theatre meetings spoke this morning. The number included J. W. West, of Birmingham, general chairman for the Louisville & Nashville system of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen; C. E. Millican, a former organizer of the moulder's union; W. G. Metcalf, general chairman Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and S. E. Roper, general chairman for the shopmen of the entire Louisville & Nashville system. One of the most appreciated speeches was made by H. O. Cline, who stated he recently spoke from a wagon to a large crowd in Lawrence County, in his old home community. He spoke of appreciating the follow-up speeches made at the same time by some prominent citizens of the Twin Cities who endorsed the stand he had taken as to the justice of the present strike.

The chairman called the meeting to order and M. B. Grant, of the carmen's union, sang a solo from the old "Sacred Heart" song book entitled "Patience."

The chaplain called on J. H. Clark, blacksmith, who led in prayer. Under reports, the publicity committee read a number of encouraging statements as to the progress of the strike and H. C. Hutchison announced that Dr. W. P. Wilks would be one of the speakers at the open meeting to be held Thursday night. Part of strike bulletin No. 2 was read amid great applause. The reports of other committees, including that of "relief to sick or disabled brothers," showed active efforts.

In speaking of the number of men at work at this point in the course of his speech, S. E. Roper said: "I will take the responsibility of saying that from the records of the company the Louisville & Nashville has employed here 250 of all classes. In the roundhouse, at 77 cents an hour, there are at present eight so-called machinists, with much less that number in the machine shop."

ATTEMPT TO CLIMB MT. EVEREST

EXPRESSION OF ENERGY AND HARDIHOOD

Restless curiosity is one of the characteristics of human beings that cannot be explained nor explained away. For a thousand years our race has been very fruitful in the production of men who cannot bear for the unexplored to remain so. An uncharted sea, an unexplored bit of the earth's surface, or an unscalable mountain ever and always proves sufficient incentive to cause any number of men to risk their lives. The recent expedition that attempted to reach the summit of Mt. Everest was but an outburst of energy and curiosity. The expedition accomplished nothing. If the top had been reached no utilitarian advantage would have been gained. There would seem to be neither sportsmanship of scientific thirst for knowledge back of the expedition. The effort was gallant, certainly, but was it worth the death of the seven men who perished in it? Were the frost bitten wind-burned wrecks of men who returned repaid for their pains? They must have known that had they succeeded little or nothing would have been added to the sum of scientific knowledge. The composition of the rocks on the summit of the mountain must have been the same as lower down. Conditions of the atmosphere as high as Mount Everest are fully known from the findings of aviators and balloonists. The height of the mountain had already been accurately known. Nothing could have been brought away from the summit but the satisfaction found in the knowledge of conquering the highest mountain peak in all the world. But mere accomplishment really excites little admiration—and the aim in this case was not high only in a physical sense—the high thing about the whole business of attempting to reach earth's highest point is that the attempt was an expression of hardihood and enterprise, two of the really noble qualities of the human race.

GERMAN HATE BECOMING
"INGROWING" ACCORDING TO SIMONDS.

The final departure of German glory is predicted in recent writings of Frank H. Simonds, foremost war time and post-war writer.

He declares that the hatred the Germans felt for the world at large so long, has now been turned loose among each other. It is pointed out that the revolutionary tendencies manifesting themselves at present in Germany are constructive in no respect.

In this connection Mr. Simonds says: "The real significance of the German defeat in 1918, lies in the fact that, so far as one can see the time has now passed forever; it is not that Germany fell temporarily, as France has fallen more than once—the real thing is that Germany missed what was actually her last chance of becoming a world power in any large sense." To put that matter baldly can a nation ever be great that does not keep its obligations? If it were said that Germany is making some payments on her war debt to other nations it should also be remembered that she did so only as forced to by threat of violence and invasion. The fact that Germany is no longer reckoned with as of any consequence by outside nations is an evidence of the decay of that nation.

The time was when all Europe feared an alliance of Germany with Russia; but now the mention of German power creates no interest much less fear. It is still another case in point of those who take the sword perishing thereby. Mr. Simonds continues:

"The more one talks with Germans, reads what they write, see what they do, the more unmistakably becomes the fact that as a people they have either obstinately refused to recognize or been congenitally incapable of perceiving the enormous fact of defeat with all of its present and future consequences. The world they believe in has crumbled, but without regard to the new world, they live in the vanished past."

He concludes forcefully as follows:

"Underneath superficial activity and apparent normalcy, as disclosed in busy factories, the political, the moral and the intellectual edifice of Germany is rapidly disintegrating."

Here and there in isolated sections one may yet find those who are opposed to being taxed for school purposes. They are perfectly willing to expend large sums of money for improved farm implements with which they can more successfully prepare and cultivate the land and greatly augment the harvest, but when it comes to being taxed for school purposes; when the means are to be raised to better equip the young of today for successfully combating the problems of tomorrow, they generally find some excuse even if it is badly predicated. These are they who augur that it is a useless waste of time and money to educate a young man who proposes to follow the very necessary avocation of a blacksmith, a carpenter or a shoemaker, contending that these vocations can be successfully plied without a finished education as with it. He is just seeing wrong. It is no longer a disputed fact by those who have given the matter some study, that an educated blacksmith can be a better blacksmith, and the same is true of a carpenter or a shoemaker. Educated men in these lines can more successfully ply their trade. With the aid of an education they are enabled to arrive at conclusions much quicker and with more certainty, and in this respect they become more valuable to those whom they are serving, and a great deal more satisfaction to themselves. The opposing ones are becoming fewer and fewer as the enlightening rays of education, expressed in the many fine young men and women who are yearly taking their places in the ranks of the promoters of our country, and through their trained minds, the hands are able to accomplish, and furnish an object lesson which is indeed forcible.

THE FORD OFFER SHELFED.

The action of the Senate agricultural committee in rejecting the Ford offer for Muscle Shoals appears to postpone action upon a definite policy for the development of this great power project.

The action of the committee was not altogether unexpected, although many supporters of the Ford proposition had come to hope and believe that a favorable report would be sent to the floor of the Senate. The Democrats were outnumbered upon the committee, but there had been indications that two or three senators from the west, members of the agricultural bloc, would stand with the minority and force a majority report. Senator Capper, however, was the only Republican to leave the reservation and vote for the Ford offer, while Senator Kendrick of Wyoming, Democrat, deserted to the Republican majority.

Advocates of the development of Muscle Shoals need not lose heart, however. The value, the merit, the worth of this great natural resource are so transcendent that they will win in the end. An arrogant, overpowering Republican majority may stem for a time the completion of the project, but justice will be done in the course of events. The rumblings of a political upheaval have been heard for many months, and they are growing in volume and violence. There is little doubt or question that they befocken the overthrow of the boss-ridden, South-jealous majority that has been thwarting the will of the great mass of the people. With the Democrats in power, or even with their number greatly increased, in both houses of the next Congress, as appears virtually certain, the Ford proposal again can be brought up. Its chances of success would be greatly enhanced.

In the meanwhile, orders have been received by army engineers at the Tri-Cities in Alabama to resume construction work upon the coffer dam at the Wilson Dam site. At least 100 men will be employed from the beginning, with the number being increased until it reaches 2,000 men. The work will be paid for out of the unexpended portion of the appropriation originally provided. Upon October 1, the appropriation of $7,500,000 for the completion of the entire Wilson Dam will become available and work will be continued upon a large scale.—Nashville Tennessean.

COTTON AFTER 100 YEARS.

The National City Bank of New York calls attention to the fact that cotton has become the world's chief reliance for textile materials, the quantity produced in the world in 1920 having become 17 times as much as in 1820, while the production of wool in 1920 was but 5 times as much as a century earlier. Meantime, adds the bank's statement, despite the efforts made in the past 50 years to develop cotton production in other parts of the globe, the United States has so increased its share of the world's cotton crop that we were in 1920 supplying 62 per cent of the world's raw cotton output as against less than 20 per cent a century earlier; "though with our abnormally small crop last year our share of the world's 1921 was far below the annual average of the past 25 years, and this year's crop will be much heavier than last, but it will still be below the standard.

Commenting upon the indications as to the crop of the current year, the Department of Agriculture says in its Weekly Bulletin:

"The week's news increased the trade's apprehension as to the ability of the South to produce a supply of cotton sufficient to meet the world's needs for the coming season. The large surplus which existed at the beginning of the present season is disappearing rapidly and the world's rate of consumption of cotton is gradually approaching the pre-war level."—Montgomery Advertiser.

Amid the doubt and confusion which abounds on every hand, great leaders are needed who can point the way which leads to the heights of peace and tranquility, where a mutual understanding abides. Not those who would dare to point the way without first considering the possibilities and the outcome, as it would affect all the interests about which there is controversy, but, men are needed who are capable of seeing through; seeing the interests of each to the controversy, and who with a clear vision, and the desire to be of real service, can build a platform upon which there can be mutual helpfulness, and persuade others to take their stand thereon.

As time lengthens out, thoughts grow into words, and words into deeds, and deeds make a chasm oftentimes across which there is no way of recrossing. From the council halls of every industrial organization; from the busy offices of capital, the dove of peace should be unloosed, and the great principle of the doctrine of the Great Humanitarian should be allowed to dominate the thoughts of those in authority.

It is a time for serious reflection. The great principle of peace is at stake, and the quivering tie which binds the interests of the industrial organizations of a nation with that of capital, is all the sides at issue to find the way.

Let us venture the hope that out of the tumult and unrest which is but growing with the days, may vibrate in every bosom, and from it there may come such a harmony of melodies which will strike a responsive chord in every human heart, and the refrain "Peace on earth, good will to man," may be on every tongue.

Posey Livingston
Is Visitor Today

Posey Livingston, who came into nation-wide notice on account of being the father of three large, well developed babies while living in Albany some years ago, now farms near Kitchens Mills. He was in the cities yesterday, and stated that the triplet, Ewell, who died some time ago, was thought to have been the strongest of the three boys, and was larger than his brothers. The two brothers now living were joined about two years ago with another baby brother. All three children are reported to be doing well by their mother, who also stated that Mrs. Livingston was enjoying good health.

VIOLA DANA IN "HOME STUFF".

AT PRINCESS WEDNESDAY

Viola Dana, whose admirers on the screen are legion, has the stellar role in the Metro special production, "Home Stuff," which comes to the Princess Theatre on Wednesday for one day.

Viola Dana has the stellar role of Madge Joy, a leading lady of a cheap barnstorming company, who finds a haven in a quiet, simple farmstead, after being ousted from the company, and her place taken by an inexperienced girl, whose admirer is willing to back the impoverished show. Then the company of actors come to the farm, bringing with them the girl, a runaway from the very home Madge has entered. The working out of the plot is truly splendid.

This story by Frank Dazey and Agnes Johnston was directed by Albert J. Kelley. John Arnold photographed and A. F. Mantz did the art work. The supporting cast includes Tom Gally, Josephine Crowell, Nelson MacDowell, Priscilla Bonner, Robert Chandler, Aileen Manning and Philip Sleeman.

ENGINEER KILLED

(By Associated Press)

WILMINGTON, N. C., July 19.—H. J. Southwell, Atlantic Coast Line engineer, was shot last night by E. H. Dallas, assistant yardmaster of the Coast Line here, died in a local hospital this morning.

Dallas is held on a murder charge. Leroy Fornible, yardmaster, is held as an accessory. The shooting grew out of a conversation regarding the strike.

When Art Failed

This is a true story of an adventure of two lady artists in Spain. They were walking and arrived at a little country inn, hot, dusty and thirsty. They couldn't talk Spanish, but wanted some milk badly, so one of them drew a most beautiful, hairy cow, while the other jingled some coins. The Spaniard looked and a boy was sent off post-haste. In half an hour the boy returned, hot and triumphant—with two tickets for a bullfight—from the London Town Topics.

Silent Adoration

What surprises me most about Scotland, writes a visitor, is not the absence of haggis and the kilt, or the presence of finely metalled roads, but the silence of the barbers' shops. Artist, and client say nothing more to each other than the few words necessary for the success of the operation in hand. When I remarked on this phenomenon to a much-traveled Scot, "Aye," he commented, "they're both thinking hard about the tip."

COTTON MARKET

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—The cotton market opened 14 to 17 points higher today on unfavorable weather reports, it being hot and dry in the Southwest and showery and cool in the Eastern belts. A dispatch from Dallas, Tex., said the crop was shedding squares badly and that grubs were in every square. The South Atlantic states were good buyers at the outset. New Orleans and Liverpool purchased. Wire and spot concerns were the principal sellers. After the start the list steadied with little changes.

"Crescent" Is Increasing Moon

Whether the moon be waxing or waning, it is called a "crescent" until it becomes a half-moon or disappears. Strictly speaking, however, the term should not be used for the waning moon. "Crescent" is derived from the Latin "crescens," which means increasing, so that the crescent moon is really the "increasing" and not the "waning" moon.

The World and Art

People love pictures. That is apparent to every thoughtful man who visits an art gallery. It may be true that comparatively few understand all that the artists have said, but it is equally true that, in general, the people take delight from the work of art.

Deputies from the sheriff's office served seven warrants on young white-men in the vicinity of McKeithen Chapel Tuesday, the warrants alleging the defacing of church property. It is charged in the warrants, the breaking out of window lights in the McKendree Methodist church, is the cause for action. The case will be heard at the next term of the Morgan County court.

MURDER STORY DENIED.

(By International News Service.)

MOSCOW, July 19.—The report of the murder of Nicolai Lenin, which apparently originated in Copenhagen, is untrue; it was established by International News Service. M. Lamanoff, president of the Moscow local soviet, said he had visited Lenin three days ago and found him improved in health. Lenin still is living in his villa in the country near Moscow.

Beneficial Wind Ascribed to Saint.
The "pontins" is a local night wind blowing out of a narrow valley near the town of Nyons, France. According to a prevailing legend, the wind was brought thither from the sea by a by-gone saint in order to increase the fertility of the region.

A batch of official ballots has been received by Probate Judge L. P. Trapp to be used in the approaching primary election to be held August 8th. The ballots, 200 in number, were ordered out ahead of time in order for non-residents to be able to make up their ballot and get it back in time to participate in the election. The balance will be forthcoming in a very short time. There were 11,000 ballots ordered. The ballot is one of the longest ever used in the county and contains the names of 109 candidates to be voted for in the coming election.

RAIN NEEDED

Tax Adjuster Eugene Baily is in receipt of a letter from his brother who resides on a large plantation near Selma, Ala., stating that they are burning up in that section, having had no rain for several weeks. He also reports that the boll weevil which was quite active there earlier in the season has practically stopped damaging the cotton plant, and while they need rain badly, fears are entertained that when the rains begin the weevil will begin also. Corn is seriously damaged, and nothing like a full crop can be made now.

PERSONALS

J. W. Clopton, though still confined to his bed at the hospital, is making steady improvement.

J. M. Minor has returned from a two weeks' business trip to points in Mississippi and Alabama.

T. E. French has returned from Courtland.

Hugh Stutz will leave today for Chattanooga, Tenn., where he will engage in the insurance business.

Wilbur Royer has returned from a visit to friends in Nashville.

Jeff Minor, of Tuscaloosa, arrived today for a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Minor.

D. L. Moore arrived today from Dillon, S. C., and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lide.

Wiley Hardwick, of Cedars, is in the city today on business. Mr. Hardwick is one of the really substantial farmers of this county. He annually kills a large number of pork hogs; cribs large amounts of corn and other crops, and pays very little attention to cotton. He generally has something to sell, and his farm is a model for self-dependence.

Mrs. Eva Briggs, of Chattanooga, is the guest of Mrs. J. R. Johnson.

Mrs. Ross Spiegel, of Huntsville, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Fowler.

Miss Lola Mai Hoffman and Mrs. Claud Best left yesterday for Fayetteville, N. C. Before returning they will visit Dunn, Wilmington, Falcon and Raleigh.

Mrs. F. H. Smith, of Norris Mill, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. E. Livingston.

Miss Zula Grissom left this afternoon for a month's vacation with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. L. Grissom, of Culpeoka, Tenn.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY, FIRST CHURCH DECATUR.

The Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church of Decatur, met at the church Monday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Brown had charge of the Bible Study, using as her Scripture lesson the 4th chapter of Mark.

Mrs. G. M. Davenport made a talk on Los Angeles, giving a graphic description of the city, its Mexican population and the wonderful natural beauties, especially the flowers.

Mrs. Riggan read an interesting paper on Miss Ellen Alfter's "Love Gift" to the Mexican people.

The meeting was then closed with the Lord's Prayer in concert.

MORGAN FURNISHES ONE.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—Morgan County furnished one ten gallon copper still to the state law enforcement department during the week-end, according to a report received by the department today. One gallon of liquor was taken as evidence and one person was arrested on a charge of operating a still.

Birds Like Old Homes.

Birds have in common with man the "homing instinct," although of course in man the instinct is not so highly developed. Just how Mr. and Mrs. Bird on their return to the north from their winter in the south find their nests each spring is not known. Their ability to locate the "old home" is simply a part of their homing instinct. Without charts, or compasses to point the way the birds fly unerringly to their old haunts each spring.

MONEY LOANED AT7%

We are correspondents for one of the largest Life Insurance companies in the world and are loaning money on dwellings and apartment houses. The following is self explanatory from our correspondent:

"We have just been advised by our Eastern Connection that they will now consider fifteen-year loans on older residences and apartments, as they have had requests from many of their correspondents asking if they be permitted to make this loan on the older houses and apartments that are in good condition and in every way meet their requirements. This step you will realize will broaden your field and we trust that you will be able to secure a considerable number of satisfactory applications on older houses. Of course, these houses must be in absolutely good condition, lathed and plastered, with individual shingle or composition roofs that are in good condition, solid foundations, and located where the values must be stable and as secure as the loans you have heretofore submitted to us on new dwellings and all municipal improvements, such as sidewalks, curbs, gutters and sewers, water and electricity, are in. The limit of these loans has also been raised and you may now submit us applications on both old and new dwellings in amounts ranging from $2,000.00 to $8,000.00."

MODERN CHASE FOR THE ELUSIVE VITAMINS BEGAN IN THE TIMES OF HIPPOCRATES

There is nothing new under the sun. The chase of the elusive vitamin, that recently-discovered, all-important element in food, began when civilization huddled about the Mediterranean, before the beginning of the Christian era. With all America clamoring for vitamins to balance the diet, and with hundreds of thousands obtaining their vitamin allowance by eating the familiar little tinfoil wrapped cake of yeast, medical research experts are recalling that the health giving value of yeast, richest of all foods in one class of vitamin, was known to Hippocrates, the father of medical science, in the days of ancient Greece.

Hippocrates, putative father of the Hippocratic oath, basis of the ethics of the medical profession even to the present day, prescribed the use of yeast in his practice many centuries ago. Of course, Hippocrates had never heard of a vitamin, and would not have recognized one if he had met it before the Athenian forum. But he knew yeast and its properties, for yeast is one of the world's oldest products, dating back to Biblical history with its leavened and unleavened bread.

Down through the centuries yeast held its place as a health food, although the secret of its properties remained hidden. In the Middle Ages the cloistered monks, with whom rested largely the practice of medicine at that time, were prescribing yeast for various ailments.

Modern medicine about the middle of the last century began experiments to clear the mystery which surrounded the properties of yeast. These researches conducted by many physicians and in many lands culminated in the recent demonstrations under the direction of a prominent Philadelphia physician which proved the usefulness of yeast in the treatment of various diseases of the skin and of the digestive tract.

Health food value is not the only property of yeast which comes down to us from the ancients. The modern beauty who eats yeast for health, and uses yeast for a cosmetic, has not discovered anything new. Flavius the Elder, writing his Natural History in the time of Christ, relates that the beauties of Rome used yeast for its beauty increasing qualities.

Art was mastered can today be observed in some of the very old buildings which stand today, having weathered the storms of the elements and stand as monuments to the faithful performance of the handwork of the pioneers, when means at hand, and the knowledge of the art of house building were not near so far advanced as it is today. These builders of the past had an eye solely to the substantial side of the job in hand. There was no slighting of work. No short cuts were taken. No imperfections covered up, but, on the contrary, the completed building had the appearance, and really carried in its entire makeup, the very best skill, and the spirit of the pioneer was built in its walls. It was simplicity to be sure, but, with that simplicity, there was embodied in every stage of its development that earnestness of purpose and fidelity to duty which made the early builders famous. When the walls were reared to the desired height, it was necessary to prepare what was called "the plate." This consisted of a larger log than any in the building, which must be shaped flat and smooth as it could be made with an axe. Here again came the art of the eye and hands and the axe. Just so hard must the axe be wielded, and in just the right place each time, lest the plate be ruined or rendered an unsightly piece of handwork. Many of these plates can be found today, almost as smooth as could be made with a modern plane.

In that day they knew no other tools, and as near a perfect job must be done with the means at hand. Then came the rafters, which were round poles, denuded of the bark, into which holes were bored in the end which rested on the plate. A hole opposite and in direct line was then bored in the plate, and well seasoned pegs of wood held the rafters to the plates. The covering consisted of boards rived from the forest trees. These applied, the house was complete with the exception of the "chinking and dobbing" the cracks between the logs. Herein again was an art known to the pioneers. With small blocks of wood fashioned a certain way and held in place with a composition mortar, the cracks in the building were completely closed and a warm home was the result. An upstairs or garret was usually provided in these homes, where the farm boys used as sleeping quarters. There was no ceiling between the floor and boards, and those who have ever enjoyed a night when the rain was falling and listened to the soothing sound of the patter patter of the raindrops on the boards outside, knows the pleasure of it, and what entrancing sleep comes to one thus surrounded. These did not build in vain; there were no gilded windows or spiked spires glittering or glistering in the sun, but there was a home, and around its sacred altar clustered in golden sheaves some of the sweetest memories which ever came to boyhood minds. From without these humble castles, when the great foundation of the republic of the present was being laid, there came sturdy sons with a purpose, thoroughly imbued with the single purpose of building the structure of government, in simplicity and honesty of purpose. How far the present generation has digressed from the plan then pursued can be gained when one looks around and observes the petty practices of national lawmakers, and the dereliction of duty on the part clarified that "his fiendishness" the boll weevil had not yet begun to ravish the little "squares" of the fleecy staple. In speaking of best methods for the destruction of the boll weevil Mr. Johnston said: "Now is the time to open the fight on the pest."

The multiplication of the boll weevil can be greatly retarded and the yield of cotton increased even without the use of insecticides. Reduce the number of hibernated weevils to begin breeding by making one collection from the cotton as the squares begin to form, using, preferably, the "hoop and sack out fit." By this method, if carefully used, 75 per cent to 80 per cent of the weevils on the plants should be destroyed before they have laid any eggs. This collection cannot be made as effectively after squares become common and large enough to hold the weevils.

Keep up frequent, shallow (1 1/2 to 2 inches deep) cultivation, going over the cotton once a week if possible and continuing until the bolls begin to open or as long as it is possible to get through the rows without seriously breaking branches. This cultivation promotes the rapid and long-continued growth of the plants, helping them to put on a maximum number of squares, to keep the weevils busy and allow the setting and maturing of a normal crop of bolls. There is no "laying-by time" before this with the weevils present. Brushing the plants during cultivation does not affect the weevils appreciably. It is impossible to bury them so deeply that they will not crawl right out again and bury squares does not prevent the emergence of most weevils therefrom. The hotter and drier the weather, the more necessary it is to keep the surface mulch of dust loose and fine so as to preserve all of the moisture in the soil for the growth of the plants.

Collect and destroy the weevil-infested squares, using for this family labor that does not require a cash outlay. It will not likely pay to hire labor to pick squares. Do not neglect cultivation even for square picking. With a light infestation begin square collection three weeks after the first bloom appears in the field. With a heavy infestation (where 40 or more weevils per acre occur when squaring begins) start collecting squares at two weeks after blooming begins. Repeat collections every fifth day for four or five collections. If the interval between collections is extended to five to ten days it will allow the emergence of many weevils to continue the infestation. Therefore it is better to give the crop more complete and continuous protection through three to four weeks rather than to give only partial protection.

of many entrusted with the sacred obligation of governing wisely and seeing to it that the government is of the people, for the people and by the people, a predicate laid down when the foundation stones of this democratic republic were placed in position, and ascribed too by men who coined the words and who meant what they said.

for five to six weeks. Collect all yellow and flared or dried brown squares from the plant as well as the fallen squares from the ground. Stop collecting squares if it becomes so extremely hot and dry that you find most of the weevil grubs dead in the fallen squares. Destroy infested squares either by burning them or, more easily, by burying them under at least eight inches of solidly packed earth.

SLEDGE NAMED.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—Special—Dr. E. S. Sledge, of Mobile, will succeed Dr. W. R. Jackson, of Mobile, deceased, as a member of the state board of censors, the state board of health and the state medical examining board. Announcement of the appointment of Dr. Sledge was received by the state health department today from Dr. W. S. Britt, of Euclid, president of the Alabama Medical Association.

HERBS USED IN MEDICINES

A. Manchester, England, paper urges the renewed cultivation of old-fashioned medicinal herbs in English gardens. In the United States they have also gone out of fashion as a feature of the small garden, although they are imported in large quantities from Turkey, India and China, where they are grown purely for commercial purposes, as their medicinal value is recognized by many leading physicians. Tons of medicinal herbs are used annually in the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most successful medicine for woman's ills. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and women afflicted with such ailments should try it.—Adv.

REMINISCENCES

By J. ADLAI WEST

In the earlier days of the settlement of this country, when sawmills were few and widely separated, it was the custom to hold in different settlements what were known as "house raisings." This consisted of the men of that particular community coming together on a specified day to rear a house for a newcomer, or, to add another one to the premises of a neighbor. Previously gathered at the place where the raising was to occur were logs of the right length, and as near the same size as possible. Men were picked from the gathering who had demonstrated their ability to carry up a straight corner. Herein lay the secret of a well appearing house. There were men in those days who, with the sole implement at hand, an axe, could with the eye and hands measure distances and direct the strokes which would give to each corner the very best appearance. This process was what was known as "notching." How well this

Babson In Barometer Letter Says

Advertising will follow one of two lines. You can fight with 20 other competitors for one case of goods which your prospect has already made up his mind to buy, or you can show that prospect how he can use five more cases of goods profitably and then depend upon getting your fair share of new business. Unfortunately, most of the advertising in the past has been of the competitive sort. Markets have been broad enough and prices have risen fast enough to make it possible to continue on this short-sighted policy.

The advertising of tomorrow, however, must of necessity be creative. A falling market will not stand the

Oklahoman Praised Black-Draught, Having Used It "Can Safely Say for 50 Years."

Grandfield, Okla.—One of the best known farmers of Tillman County, Mr. G. W. Tisdale, who owns and manages a wagon yard here, says:

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught—I believe I can safely say for fifty years.

"I was born and reared in Texas, Freestone County, sixty-four years ago. I have been married forty-four years. My father used Black-Draught before I was married, and gave it to us . . .

"For forty-four years of my married life, it has had a place on our medicine shelf, and is the only laxative, or liver medicine, we use. We use it for torpid liver, sour stomach, headache, indigestion . . . I don't think we could get along without it, knowing what it has done for us, and the money it has saved. It is just as good and reliable today as it was when we began its use. My boys use it and they are satisfied it's the best liver medicine they have ever used."

Thedford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, not disagreeable to take and acts in a prompt and natural way. So many thousands of persons have been benefited by the use of Thedford's Black-Draught, you should have no hesitancy in trying this valuable old well-established remedy, for most liver and stomach disorders. Origin of Wedding Cake.
The wedding cake dates back to the laws of Romulus and the early days of Rome. Instead of elaborate marriage festivals Romulus instituted the confraternal. The union of the man and woman was solemnized simply and quickly by the eating of a loaf of barley bread together. This marriage ceremony was in force for some generations among the Romans. Then as civilization developed, the barley bread became a cake.

Hartselle News

The meeting which has been in progress at the Methodist Church for the past week continues with increasing numbers in attendance and interest. Rev. Guice, the evangelist who is conducting the services, is proving most popular preacher, and his interpretation of the Scriptures has been a revelation to many. The first week of the service was devoted to laying the foundation for the services which were to follow. The second week is devoted to stirring appeals to the unconverted, and the message is reaching the hearts of the people, and much concern is being exhibited by those who attend.

Mr. Campbell, the choir leader, has developed a fine chorus among the local singers, and the song service is proving one of the enjoyable features of the services. The congregational singing has also been greatly improved.

The second game of the series which is being played here with the Sheffield team went to the visitors by a score of 9-7. In the initial inning Hartselle marked up two scores o Sheffield's nothing. In the innings which followed the visitors were able to get the best of the contest, and got hits when hits meant runs. The third and last game will be played today. The locals hope to make it 2-1 of the series of three games. This will make six games played with the Sheffield team, Hartselle winning two at Sheffield last week, and should they win today will make four out of six games played. Riddle is scheduled to hurl for the locals today.

Messrs. Clyde Sharpe and Eugene Polytinsky returned Tuesday afternoon from a trip through the country to Gadsden.

Work on the large garage which is being erected by Stewart Bros., facing the large sales stable of J. J. Cudd, is progressing rapidly, the concrete foundation having been completed, and the brick work began today.

Country watermelons, which are considered two weeks late on this market, are now beginning to arrive in considerable quantities. The melons from the mountain districts near here are considered the very best to be obtained anywhere, the Cleckley Sweet being the favorite. The melons find ready sale among the merchants, and all of them are consumed here. There has never been an effort made in this section to raise melons for shipment. It would seem that it would be a prosperous industry, as the South Alabama crop is now about exhausted, just at a time when North Alabama melons are just beginning to arrive on the market.

When work begins on the Bee Line highway north of here it is understood that the roadway will be closed to traffic. This will necessitate the detour round by way of Priceville in order to reach Albany-Decatur. There is each day much travel from here to the Morgan County seat, and this plan will prove a serious disarrangement, especially should the weather be rainy.

Miss Louise Guyer, who is attending the Florence Normal College, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Guyer.

Miss Cleo Wiley, who for some time past has been with the Traders National Bank at Birmingham, is home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Wiley, for a vacation period.

News has been received from Sam Polytinsky, who was called to Paterson, N. J., on account of the serious injury of a brother in an automobile wreck, to the effect that his brother died before he reached his destination. Mr. Polytinsky is expected home this week.

Perry Orr is away on an extended trip through the West, including the cities of San Francisco, Cal., Denver, Colo., and will return via Canada. He will return in time to resume his studies at the Vanderbilt University, where he has been a student for the past two years.

Miss Cleo Wiley, who for some time past has been with the Traders National Bank at Birmingham, is home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Wiley, for a vacation period.

S. A. LYNN

Decatur, Alabama

(SPEAKER HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES)

Candidate for

CHIEF JUSTICE OF THE SUPREME COURT OF ALABAMA

In a letter to the Montgomery Advertiser, dated December 15, 1921, Colonel W. A. Gunter, the nestor of the Alabama Bar, said:

"But it is a great calamity that innocence or right should ever fail to obtain protection from the judiciary, as it often does in Alabama."

"The question is, what is the remedy or a help in the matter."

"I will venture to suggest one help—The law provides that seven men shall constitute the court but that the court may decide cases in sections of four."

"Now the general practice, I believe, is for one judge to decide the case, and for the other three to assent or dissent from his decision. The result is that if the first judge makes a mistake, as he naturally will occasionally do, the other judges often take his idea without original investigation, and the error becomes the opinion and decision of the court. This makes the Supreme Court to consist of one man only—and thus one man's blunder is death to a victim and a 'monkey wrench' in the cogs of the machine."

If elected, I shall dedicate the best that is in me to the end that our highest Court regain its exalted place in the galaxy of State Appellate Courts. The decisions of cases should be by the court, not by one member; oral arguments should be encouraged, not merely tolerated; all meritorious issues presented by the record should be decided; and, should there be a division of the Court in any case, the opinion should be written by a member of the majority.

Your vote and influence is earnestly solicited.

Sincerely yours,

S. A. Lynne
